

Tumor processing for CAF isolation

 Yuki Miyai  Atsushi Enomoto *

Updated date: Jul 5, 2022

*For correspondence: enomoto@iar.nagoya-u.ac.jp

 An abbreviated version of this protocol was published in Life Science Alliance in Mar 2022

Meflin-positive cancer-associated fibroblasts enhance tumor response to immune checkpoint blockade

DOI: 10.26508/lsa.202101230

Related files

 CAF_isolation.docx

How to cite: (Readers should cite both the Bio-protocol preprint and the original research article where this protocol was used)

1. Miyai, Y. and Enomoto, A. (2022). Tumor processing for CAF isolation. Bio-protocol Preprint. 10.21769/p1770.
2. Miyai, Y., Sugiyama, D., Hase, T., Asai, N., Taki, T., Nishida, K., Fukui, T., Chen-Yoshikawa, T. F., Kobayashi, H., Mii, S., Shiraki, Y., Hasegawa, Y., Nishikawa, H., Ando, Y., Takahashi, M. and Enomoto, A. (2022). Meflin-positive cancer-associated fibroblasts enhance tumor response to immune checkpoint blockade. Life Science Alliance 5(6). DOI: 10.26508/lsa.202101230

Copyright: Content may be subjected to copyright.